

Does your patient suffer from an untreatable terminal disease?

We can pay out the life insurance policy in advance

If a family member learns that he/she is suffering from an untreatable terminal disease, it's likely that financial problems will occur at the same time. This is true especially in the case of a wasting disease, which could last from some months until a few years. Fixed costs will continue and, as a result of the disease, you will face extra costs.

Because more attention will be paid to medical, physical and social issues the patient and / or partner might close their eyes to financial matters. Understandable but not desirable.

If a person suffers from an untreatable terminal disease but is in the possession of a life insurance policy, we can pay out such a policy in advance. For many risk insurance policies, which are linked to mortgages, we can do the same.

Receiving a lump sum in advance can bring some relief and ease some other problems.

We are in contact with every insurance company located in the Netherlands, under supervision of the Insurance Association. We carry out the paperwork in cooperation with a notary officer in order to speed up the payments.

Simplicity

Your patient does not need to undergo lengthy interviews with doctors affiliated with insurance companies or with an intermediary linked to the insurance company.

Only a short interview with us is sufficient to start the advance lump sum payment. The patient has only to complete the application form, and submit the terminal statement from the medical doctor, a copy of the patients policy and a copy of his / her passport or ID-card. One of our employees will collect the documents, which will then be passed on to a notary who will keep them in custody.
